

Dear FCC

It is in the public interest that Traffic, Weather and other information be available from any source. How can it possibly be in the public good to limit communication of important information to a particular technology. This is especially true when one considers that in this case the XM Traffic and Weather services are far superior to the FM and AM competition.

The FCC works for the people. Do what is good for the people!

Peter Wolf